

Our March Milwaukee AACT meeting is Student Night, which will take place on Thursday, March 15th at the Delafield Brewhaus where we will be hosting a beer and hor d'oeuvre pairing. Our student speaker, Kayla Saslow, a senior at UW-Madison, will be presenting her research on caramelized white chocolate, otherwise known as the confection industry's hottest new hue, blonde chocolate! Come hear Kayla explain how chocolate can be processed and formulated to create this delicious and highly versatile flavor!

Since this is student night we will be looking for student sponsors and will be hosting a silent auction benefitting the UW-Madison Food Science Club. If you are interested in sponsoring a student for this meeting, please email me for more information. We really appreciate those who choose to sponsor the students as it allows them to continue to attend our meetings!

We will be doing things a little differently this month with our sign up, so please rsvp using the following link:

<https://www.eventbrite.com/e/milwaukee-aact-march-meeting-student-night-tickets-43257059028>

Please let me know if you have any questions, we hope you can make it!

Thanks so much,

Ellie Schroeder

Product Development Scientist | Masterson Foods

4023 W. National Avenue, Milwaukee, WI 53215

T 414.902.2247 | ellie.schroeder@mastersonfoods.com